

Prof Chen Dongxiao is Senior Research Fellow and President of the Shanghai Institutes for International Studies (SIIS). Specialising in the studies of the United Nations, China's foreign policy, and China-US relations, Chen has published extensively on China's diplomacy, major power relationship, UN reform, and global governance.

In his responsibility as the SIIS President and senior policy advisor to the government, Chen has chaired numerous research projects commissioned by the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Ministry of Finance, Taiwan Affairs Office, and supervised extensive academic publications supported by the China National Foundation of Social Sciences. Chen is editor-in-chief of the Global Review (published in the Chinese language) and the China Quarterly of International Strategic Studies (published in the English language), both of them being flagship journals on China's diplomacy, hosted by the SIIS and contributed by expertise across China and abroad.

Chen is also the founding editor-in-chief of the SIIS Report, an English think-tank report series that aims to exchange ideas and present proposals of leading Chinese think tanks on common agendas facing the international community. As an eminent policy advisor to the Chinese government, Chen is senior advisor on economic diplomacy for the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and senior advisor of the International Business Leaders Advisory Council for the Mayor of Shanghai (IBLAC).

He is also part of the Independent Team of Advisors at the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) Dialogue on longer-term positioning of the United Nations Development System, and a member of the ASEAN Regional Forum's (ARF) Expert and Eminent Persons.

Chen earned his PhD from Fudan University, and receives a special government subsidy from the State Council. As an adjunct professor at the Shanghai International Studies University, Chen holds the position of Vice Chair of the China National Association of International Relations.